

Tallinn University of Technology

International experience is a substantial part of any résumé. In addition to the personal growth that comes with travel, being able to participate in one of Europe's top Summer Schools helps YOU stand out from the crowd.

The most talented graduates of TUT continue their studies at European and American top universities (Stanford, Berkeley) or start their career in international enterprises, such as Microsoft, Nokia.

TUT is actively collaborating with different world famous companies – for example in 2012 an innovative world-wide event „Global Kinect Olympics“ is organized with Microsoft at TUT (<http://www.ttu.ee/kinectolympics>)

Tallinn University of Technology has:

An excellent reputation amongst other research universities in Europe.

Has a multicultural student body from more than 60 countries around the world.

Has excellent professors from abroad (Stanford, Berkeley).

Offers a variety of social events.

Has a strong support system for international students by the university and local students.

Education and a degree from TUT open doors to the European job market!

To be honest, before I came to Estonia, I had very many question marks about this country, but when I really arrived here and after stayed for some time, I realized this is really a charming country, and I was deeply moved by the local culture and atmosphere. I study the programme of International Business Administration, all the facilities in the university are very good and modern, I study and live with people from different country all over the world, I believe my Estonian time will be the shining part of my entire life.
