ERASMUS MUNDUS MASTERS COURSE EUROPUBHEALTH

Seven renowned European universities are collaborating to deliver Europubhealth, an innovative integrated 2 year Master course for high quality students who wish to embark on a career in public health at the local, national, or global level. Since 2006, the programme has brought together established centres of excellence in public health to provide a unique, innovative and globally attractive European offer. In addition, we now offer opportunities for placement at all seven partner institutions, as well as at the American Mailman School of Public Health of Columbia University. This aims to produce graduates who are able to :

- Analysing and addressing the determinants of health problems from a population perspective.
- Proposing, planning, implementing and evaluating culturally appropriate, evidence-based policies and interventions for the effective improvement of population health in international, national, and local contexts.

ACCESS PROFILES AND CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

Interdisciplinary by nature, Europubhealth is open to students with diverse but complementary profiles drawn from health sciences (including doctors, nurses, veterinaries, pharmacists) or social science backgrounds (including, for example, sociology, economics, psychology, anthropology, geography, political sciences, law).

Depending on the specialisation, students are trained to undertake different public health functions such as health surveillance and protection, health promotion, planning and regulation, organising, delivering and evaluating the effectiveness of health services.
